Foreword

Within this building we have found a high school whose name we are proud to bear, whose standards have directed us as students of principle, purpose, and ability; whose vigorous academic, religious and social life has afforded us the necessary growth and preparation for the problems that lie ahead.

We wish to share our experiences with you—to show you why we are proud to be graduates of Saint Martin's. And as you follow us through our senior year, you will agree that our Catholic education has fit us spiritually, mentally, and physically for the fulfillment of our responsibilities. Yes, we have been inspired and challenged, as well as prepared for life in

THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS.

Though our student body has representatives from eighteen parishes in the city, each Martinite feels that he can claim St. Martin's as a second parish, and its BELOVED PASTOR, FATHER GEO. E. SHANK as a life-long friend.

The guidance administered by the faculty of Saint Martin's is an inspiring example of sacrifice. Their unsurpassable interest in molding your characters indicates outstanding work as both spiritual and educational advisers. Your FOREWORD shows that you appreciate their efforts. May you realize their ambitions for you; and thus share in the generous reward which they will receive from Him on whom they pattern their lives.

Father's Message to the Graduates

FATHER CARL BIVEN

Father taught us World History, but he gave us a wealth of enlightenment besides. Blessed with a special gift of solving problems for youth, many times this kindhearted Alter Christus helped us over the hurdles. We will miss his friendly smile, but we will be happy to recall his name, for truly it brings to mind many pleasant hours of our school life.

Parents and Friends of Saint Martin High School

A strong support to THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS is the Association of Parents and Friends of Saint Martin's. In the limited time of its existence, this organization has brought about a better understanding among students, parents, and teachers. It has helped to clarify the policies of the Institution, and has given to our school a new prestige and better public relations.

Some seniors' parents smile for their daughters' yearbook. Seated are the Mesdames Ellis, Reynolds, and Hardy. Standing are Mr. and Mrs. Schaub.

In Retrospect

Every student graduates from St. Martin with a store of remembrances. Among the many which we cherish is the fact that we were Marian Freshmen. Then we numbered twenty girls and one boy. (Poor Jim!) Our first memories of school activities are centered around Father Shank. How lustily we sang the "Magnificat" and "God Bless You" at his Welcome!

The highlight of this year was the Marian Congress at Emmitsburg. That soul-stirring sight we shall never forget.

We spent most of our First Year getting in and out of trouble. Echoing down the years is the voice of Sister Marie, "We can forgive you because YOU are ONLY FRESHMEN—but the others!!!"

1955—Woe is us! We joined the ranks of 'the others', and shared the blame for bad example, but at least we had reached the second lap of the race. It was at this time that Jim's nose was broken. Another boy joined our ranks.

The biology class stands out particularly in our Sophomore memories. What fun we had examining microscopic forms under our new bioscope!

1956—Juniors! We are down to nineteen, and Jim is alone again, (poor Jim!) These were busy days—days when we began to accept responsibility seriously; when the ideals of St. Martin meant more than mere words; days when we wondered, "Will our class rings ever come?"

We worked hard for the yearbook. But we had plenty of fun. Remember the skit, "Today's Teenagers!" And don't forget the preparations for Father Shank's Silver Jubilee, and the pride we took helping him celebrate it.

Then came the Prom, that unforgettable night; and Commencement and—

We are Seniors! Now we are fifteen (plus Jim!) conscientiously practicing the good habits we have acquired, and trying to become true Martinites.

Retreat this year meant more to us than ever before. Now we must close our sketchy history, as the first section of our yearbook reaches its deadline. We invite you to continue with us in picture, the happiest year we have spent in THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS.

Can we live through it? Was the question in the minds of our dignified upperclassmen, as one hundred seven Freshmen joined the ranks of Saint Martin. But (as of April), the stairs are still standing, and the ceilings are in place, so the other half of the high school are breathing easier—waiting for another onslaught in September.

ORGANIZATIONS

James McGann, Saint Martin Representative, and member of the Student Executive Board of the Legion of Decency, creditably conducted the school rally in October, 1956.

The Student Council

Mary Mosmiller, Eleanor Foreman, Edward McNulty, Betty Sipes, Sandra Knoles, Connie Fitzsimmons, Deana Hardy, Marlene Reynolds, Patricia Ellis, and Marie Bolton. OMITTED FROM THE PICTURE are Vandella Moore and Madalyn Wynne.

Charged with regulating traffic and maintaining order in the corridors at change of classes, these Martinites periodically discuss the special problems at various posts.

The members of the Council are chosen for their cooperation towards the faculty and their fellow students, their school spirit, and their friendliness. They are, or try to be personifications of . . .

The Student Pledge

As a member of the student body of Saint Martin High School, I resolve to uphold the high standards which have been set before me. I shall try to the best of my ability to maintain St. Martin's code of conduct, and to derive the best from the many opportunities presented to me. I offer my full cooperation and enthusiastic support to all school activities. I propose to respect the advice and guidance of all those in authority. I shall be courteous and considerate in my association with my fellow-classmates. At all times and in all places, I shall be conscious of the fact that I am a member of Saint Martin High School, and I shall try to reflect the Catholic training gained there.

Legion of Decency

Members on the panel, "Why the Legion of Decency?" are James McGann, member of the Student Executive Board, Alan Nagle, Arlene Hansel, John Fitzpatrick, and Betty Sipes.

"How about a little arsenic in your tea?" asks Alan Nagle as he warns the assembly against B and C moving pictures.

The Martinite Unit of the National Legion of Decency held its school rally early in October. In preparation for Catholic Youth Week, we reviewed our privileges and obligations as Catholic Teenagers. Among other things, we resolved: 1) to read the movie and television reviews found in Catholic magazines, and base our opinions on those of specialists; 2) to give to good movies all the free advertisement we can; 3) not to be seen near movie houses that show B or C pictures as a matter of policy.

A crowded Cathedral on the Feast of Christ the King, and several successful intra-city rallies show the earnestness of the Baltimore Catholic Youth in their demand for clean entertainment.

Raymond Zentgraf, the school's Junior Executive, posts the new lists as they arrive. (Assisted here, by William Marmion.)

Looking for bargains at the Mission Dance and Fair, are Walter Sompayrac, Thomas Bratt, Betty Crooks, Deborah Mooney, Kathleen Small, Mary Lou Riggie, and Antionette Rekus.

Sister Claire Frances, newly arrived from Bolivia, gave us first-hand news of our Sisters' Missions there.

The Catholic Students' Crusade

The CSMC gives us a chance to show our zeal for the Missions. Activities of this organization combine enthusiasm and true Christian Charity. Material as well as spiritual offerings have been sent to Bolivia, and to the Bishops' Relief Fund.

In prayer and sacrifice the Martinites are always ready to cooperate with the Missions.

Our Mission Leaders are James Shaw, I-B Rep.; Charles Day, Vice-Pres.; Deana Hardy, Pres.; Mary Bauer, Secretary and Jacqueline Hawkins, I-A Representative.

At the Cathedral on Palm Sunday, Archbishop Keough presents the Palladin Jewel to Deana Hardy, our president.

Since every day we say a special prayer for an increase in Religious Vocations, it is little wonder that our picture of the March meeting should be so serious. With Father Biven as chairman, the participants were Constance Fitzsimmons, "Teenagers and Vocations;" Edward Hogart, "After God, The Decision is Yours;" JoAnn Degan, "Vocation, A Gift of God;" Albert Peters, "What is A Brother?" John Fitzgerald, "The Priest and The Sacraments."

How Is a Yearbook Put Together?

"Come around on Tuesdays," answer Marie Molica, Marlene Schaeffer, Donna Hardy, and Marlene Reynolds of the Business Staff, "and see us check our Patron and Subscription Lists."

"Stop by most any day after school, and you'll find us arranging pictures and writing copy," say our Associate Editors, Patricia Ellis (2), and Constance Fitzsimmons (4). "Just be here at any memorable time, and watch for the flash," say our Camera Experts, Deana Hardy (3) and Margaret Allen (1). Grace Noll, Business Manager is omitted from the picture.

Children of Mary

PREPARATION OF CHRISTMAS BASKETS gave us an opportunity to spend ourselves as well as our pennies for the poor.

THE MAKING OF GREEN SCAPULARS to help spread devotion to Our Lady was an outlet for our zeal in her service.

The Marian Rally

"The Song of Lourdes as Played Today" was the theme of the Marian Rally held April 22 at Seton High School. A remote preparation for the centennial anniversary of the apparition at Lourdes, the Rally gave us a chance to discuss how Mary's message at Lourdes can be applied to modern times.

The day began with a Dialogue Mass at Sts. Philip and James Church. This was followed by the General Session conducted by Father William McClimont, Director of the Children of Mary.

After lunch, we were divided into groups having a chairman and secretary, to discuss the four messages conveyed by Our Lady to Bermadette Soubirous in 1858. The topics discussed were Penance, Prayer, Purity, and Politness. Each group decided how these virtues can be put into their everyday lives. The secretary combined the discussion reports, and her findings were given at the second general assembly of the Rally.

Seton High School Orchestra supplied the Marian atmosphere, and the Speech and Drama Club from the Immaculate Conception Academy, Washington, gave the readings from the Song of Bernadette.

The Congress closed with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The honor of leading the prayers was given to our C. of M. President, Constance Fitzsimmons. About seventy-five girls represented Saint Martin. Twelve other schools taught by the Daughters of Charity were represented, as well as three Schools of Nursing.

SCHOOL LIFE

Deana and Dolores agree that "Patchwork Quilt" is an accurate description of foreign possessions in Africa before World War I...The Senior class wonder if Shakespeare would have made his women characters so clever had he not lived during the queenship of Elizabeth...All heads turn toward Wesley Smith as he explains the graphical structure of the carbon atom. Warren Frank locates the element on the Chart.

Junior-Sophomore Discussion Group

At midyear a discussion group formed from the Junior and Sophomore classes to offer the members an extra challenge in creative thinking.

Sponsored by Father Biven, they met weekly and engaged in a variety of activities. Two debates were held. (Oh, how those knees get weak when you have to stand on your own two feet before a group and talk!)

Models of good short-story writing were read and discussed, and surprising talent was discovered when members of the group wrote some short stories of their own.

The toughest project was the reading and discussion of Herman Melville's classic, "Moby Dick."

IN BIOLOGY CLASS...Sophomore students compare the butterfly with the moth. John Fitzgerald is at the chart; Patricia Geci, Carla Shanahan, and Mary Jane Kaiser have moved back to William Marmion who displays the real thing.

Miss Perry's class are engrossed in writing mysterious symbols on their stenography pads... ending of course in "Very truly yours."

Business Education

With efficiency as their motto, another group of Juniors type their way to success and achievement.

A Dead Language?

There's nothing dead here—not even Latin; that is, not with this lively set of Freshmen.

During Fire Prevention Week the General Science Class found an interesting part-time teacher, as well as a welcome change in routine. Mr. Van Blargen revealed to them the secrets of the fire extinguisher and showed them how it works.

R . r . . r . . Ring!

After a unit on the use of the telephone, Sister Mary invited Miss Amanda Bowman and her Assistant from the Telephone Company to give a demonstration. We enjoyed their visit and had time to profit by their suggestions and the findings of the tape recorder. Miss Bowman left the kit with us for a few days. In the picture, the class has been given a form for judging the conversation taking place between Beatrice Wiegard and Daniel Lyons. Helen Beadenkopf is at the controls.

A group of eager Freshmen—and a piece of good photography. Michael Lehane did such a precise job that we were able to make one large picture out of two, without changing the semi-circle effect.

Working girls, Janet Robinson and Catherine Riordan plead with landlady, Connie Fitzsimmons to wait just a little while longer; their companion Grace Noll is bringing home enough money to pay the rent.

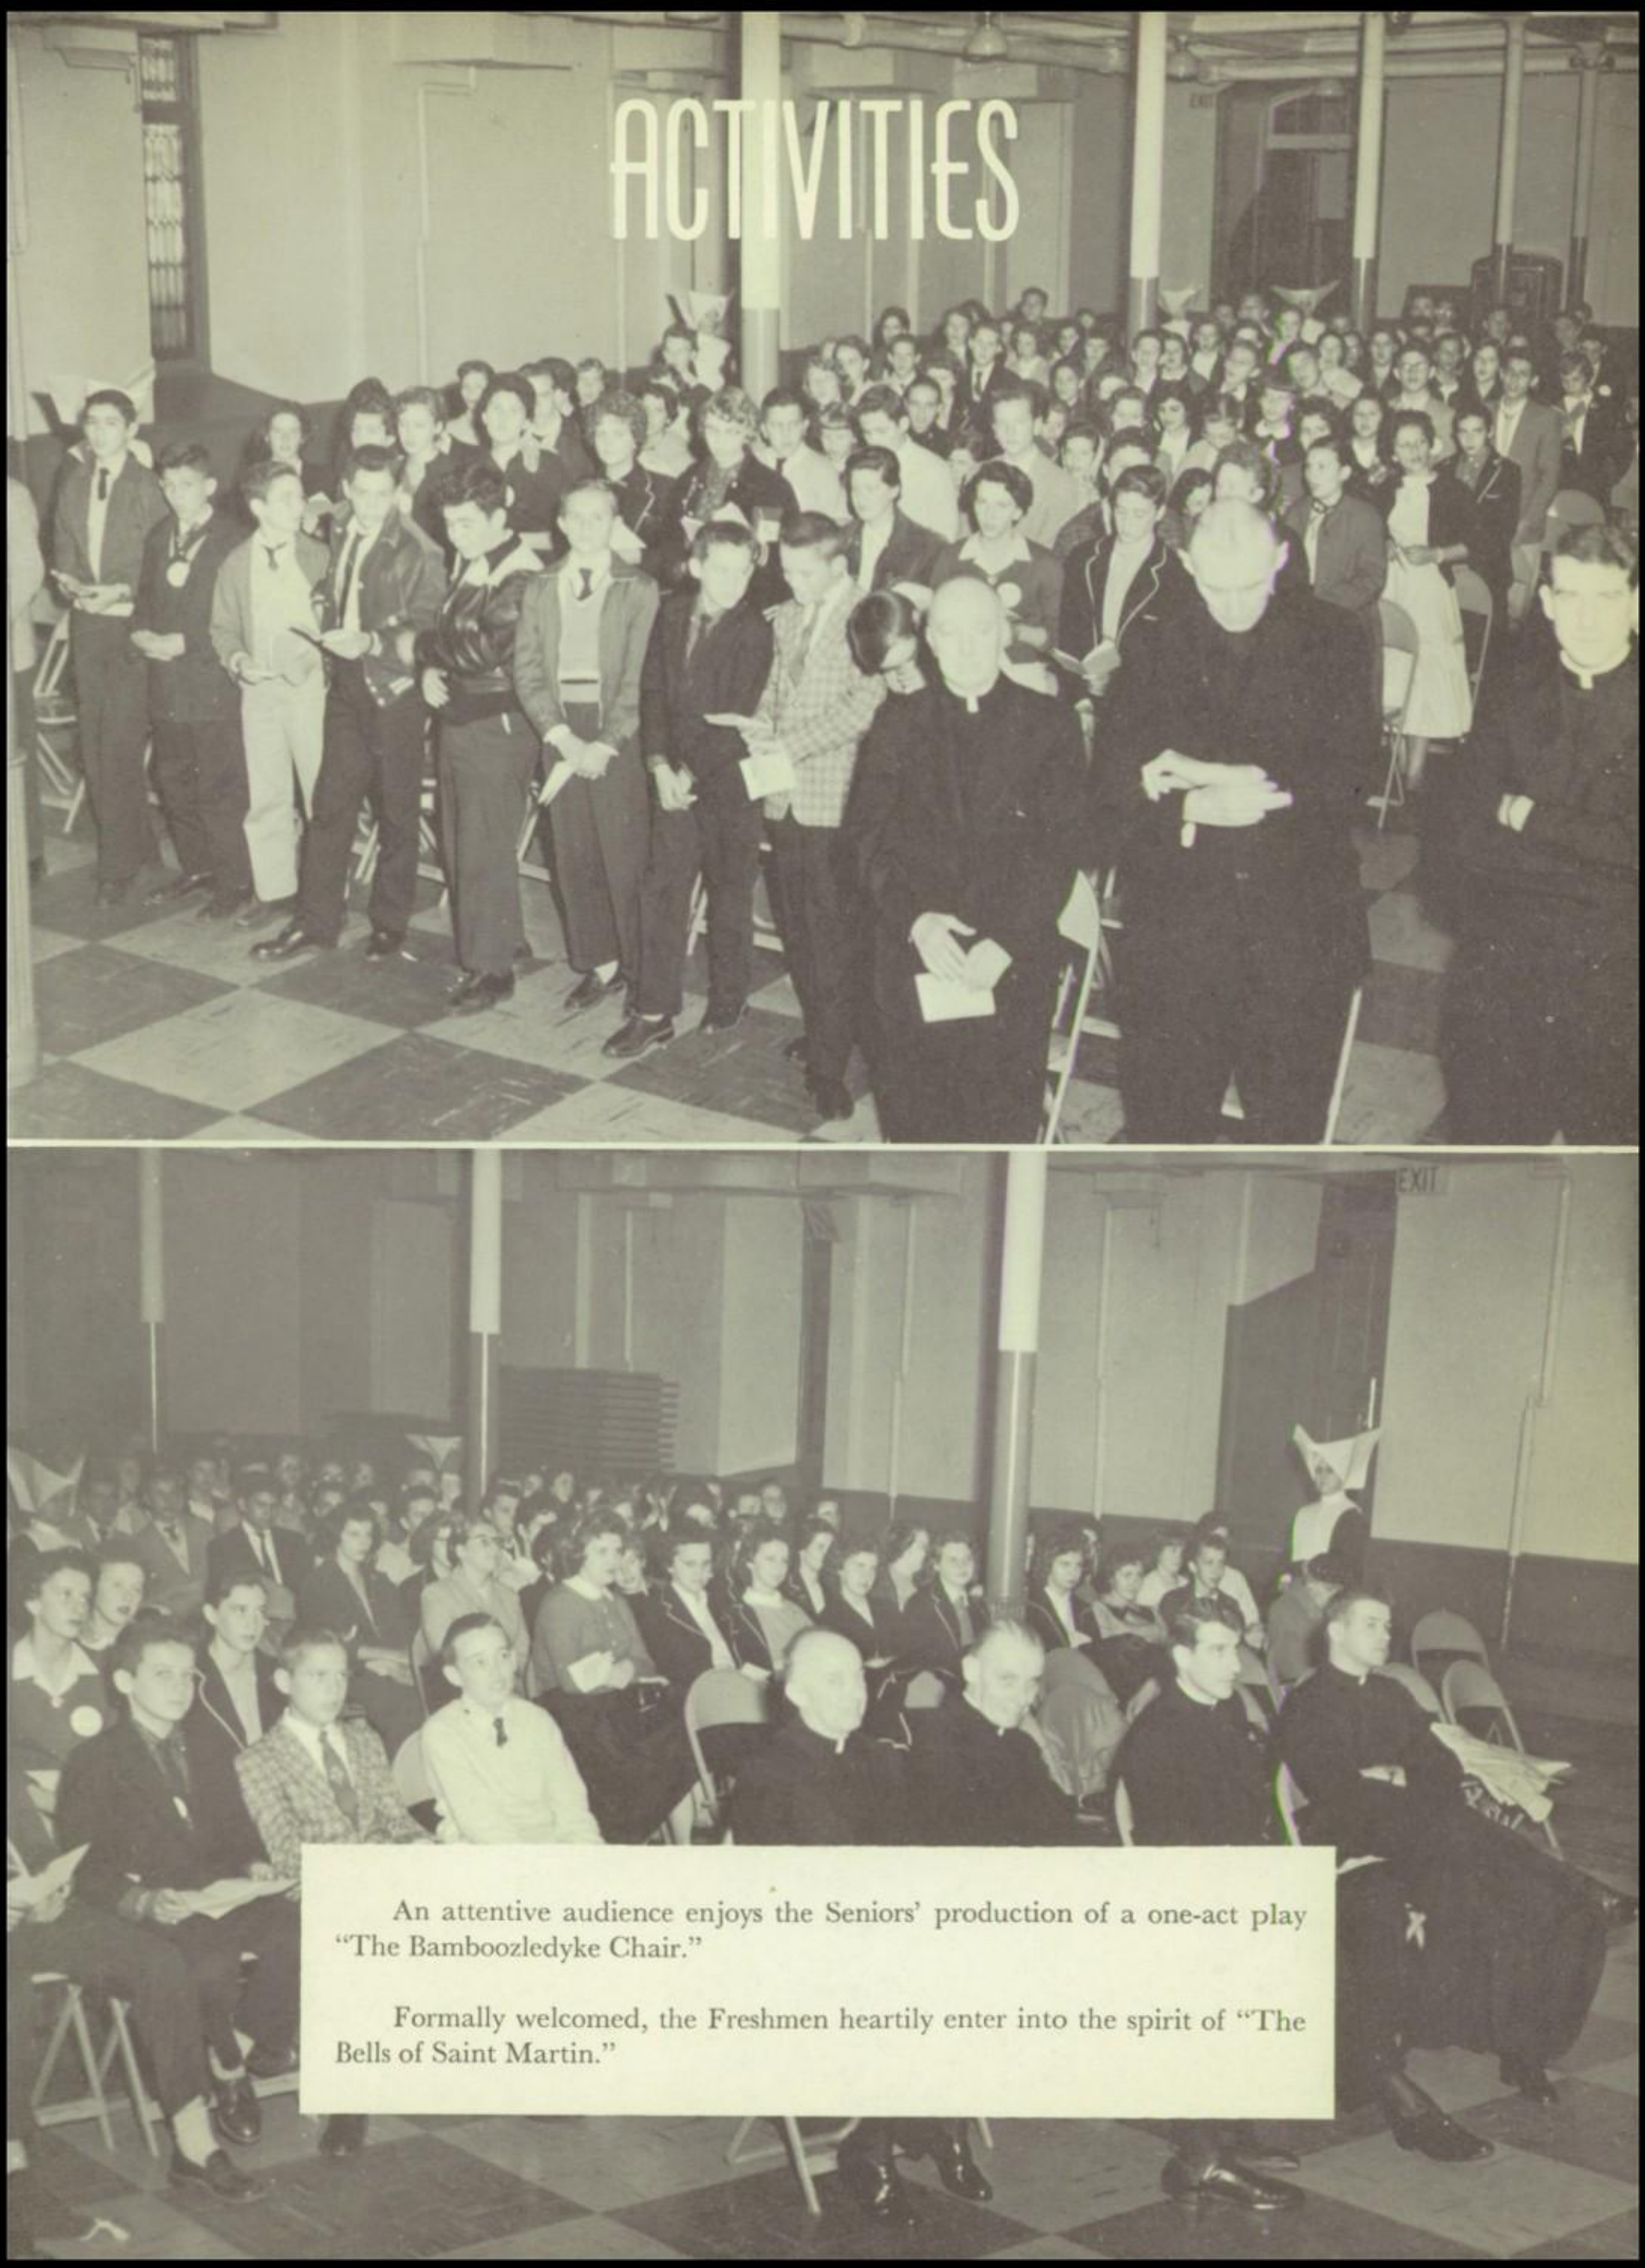
Grace, an artist, had the money but couldn't resist the urge to buy a beautiful antique. Girls are caught in the act of scolding her for her lack of common sense.

Chair isn't even comfortable; but the girls, (and the landlady), live happily ever after when they find out why.

Freshmen Are Properly Welcomed

Mary Karpers and Pat Groome can't decide who's leading, but who cares when they can smile for the Yearbook on this SPECIAL DAY of the Freshmen?

ACTIVITIES



An attentive audience enjoys the Seniors' production of a one-act play "The Bamboozledyke Chair."

Formally welcomed, the Freshmen heartily enter into the spirit of "The Bells of Saint Martin."

We Celebrate the Feast

The four girls nearest the camera as the photographer films the students entering the Church, are Betty Crooks, Marlene Gustatus, Mary Ann Bahr, and Patricia Reed.

On Sunday, November 11, we kept the time-honored custom of Mass in a body on Saint Martin's Day. New students as well as old, were proud to acknowledge the fact that the Holy Patron of THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS has gained a warm spot in their devotion.

Speaker for the occasion was Msgr. John J. Duggan, Pastor of Sts. Philip and James, whose mother and sister are outstanding members of this parish.

Of Our Patron, St. Martin

Former Assistants and loyal friends joined Father Shank in traditional style to give honor to this great Saint. Among them were (front row) Revs. John Kerr, Leo Otterbein, William McEvoy; (second row) Revs. Edwin Schneider and Gerard Spraker.

Mass over, The Most Rev. John Russell and his two Chaplains, Rev. Stanley Scarff and Rev. Henry Collins are pictured on their way to the Rectory.

Seated in the sanctuary (p. 38) are Richard Smit, server; Rev. Joseph Bradley, deacon; Very Rev. Cyril Dukehart, S.S., Superior of St. Charles College, celebrant; Rev. A. Leo Abendschoen, sub-deacon; John Restivo, server.

And where was Father Shank? Up in the choir directing a splendid program of liturical music.

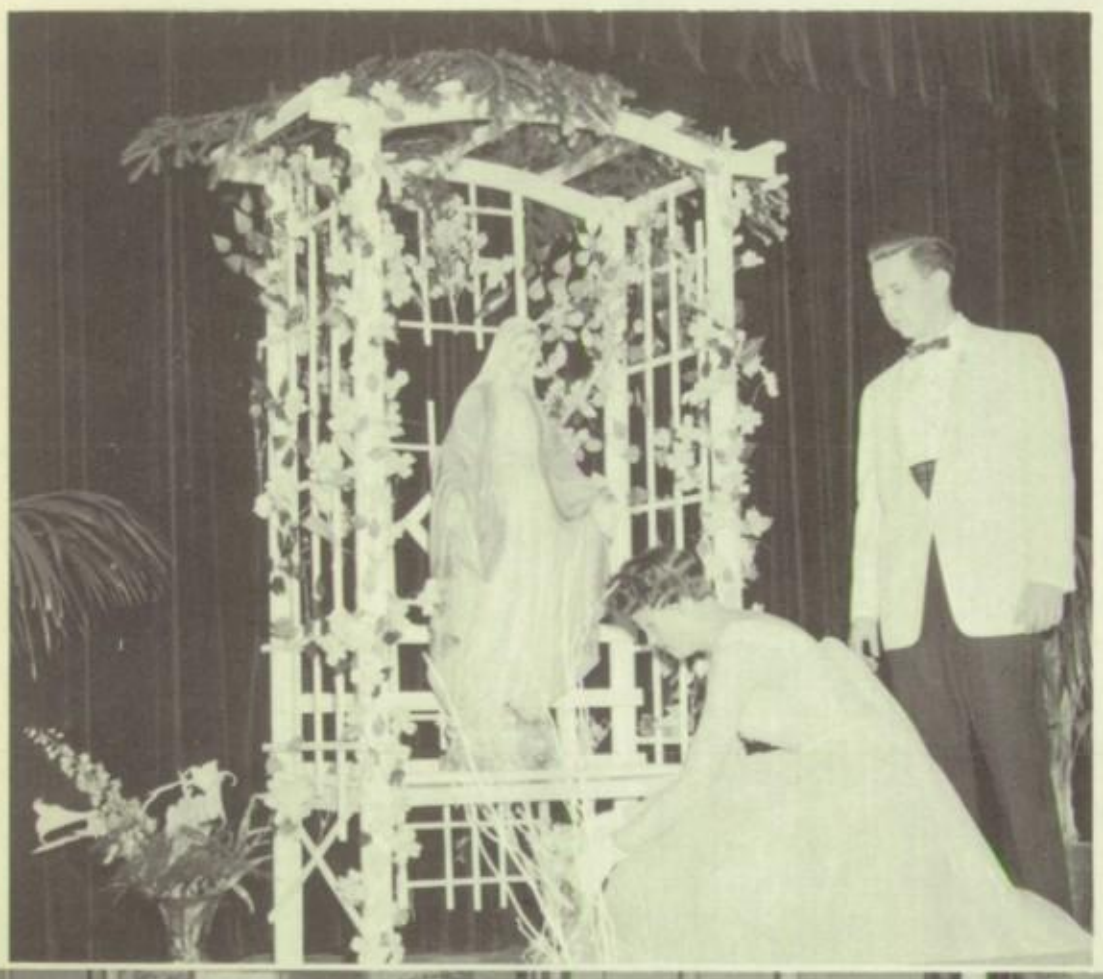
The Annual

Retreat

Another tradition of THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS is the Annual Retreat. These spiritual exercises provide certain experiences which enable the student to achieve Catholic standards of living.

The three days preceding the feast of Our Lady of Lourdes found Saint Martin High transformed into a haven of prayer. Classrooms were no longer the workshops they had been. Secular books were out of sight, and an array of thought-provoking pamphlets took their places. Assisted by devout readings, recitation of the Rosary, Stations of the Cross, and the practical discourses of Rev. Terrence Brodie, C.P., the students advanced in their love of God.

At the close of the Retreat, Father Terrance Brodie gave the Apostolic Blessing to the students.



In an Old

The night had finally arrived.
Nine o'clock—the time;
School Hall—the place;
A Colonial Garden—the scene.

Lacework-in-iron furniture, a rock garden with all the trimmings, and a pond of water lilies lent authenticity to the background.

Girls in demure sweetness, and escorts in black and white graced the floor waiting for the first strains of Bob Craig's orchestra to set their land of wonder and color into motion.

Fashioned Garden . . .

Ten fifteen found everyone at Our Lady's Shrine echoing the refrain of "Mother Beloved" as our president, Marie Bolton presented her with a floral bouquet.

Time flew. . .the last dance. It was over. . .over all too soon. But we shall never lose the memories of the '57 Junior-Senior Prom in THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS.

"We decree and establish . . .

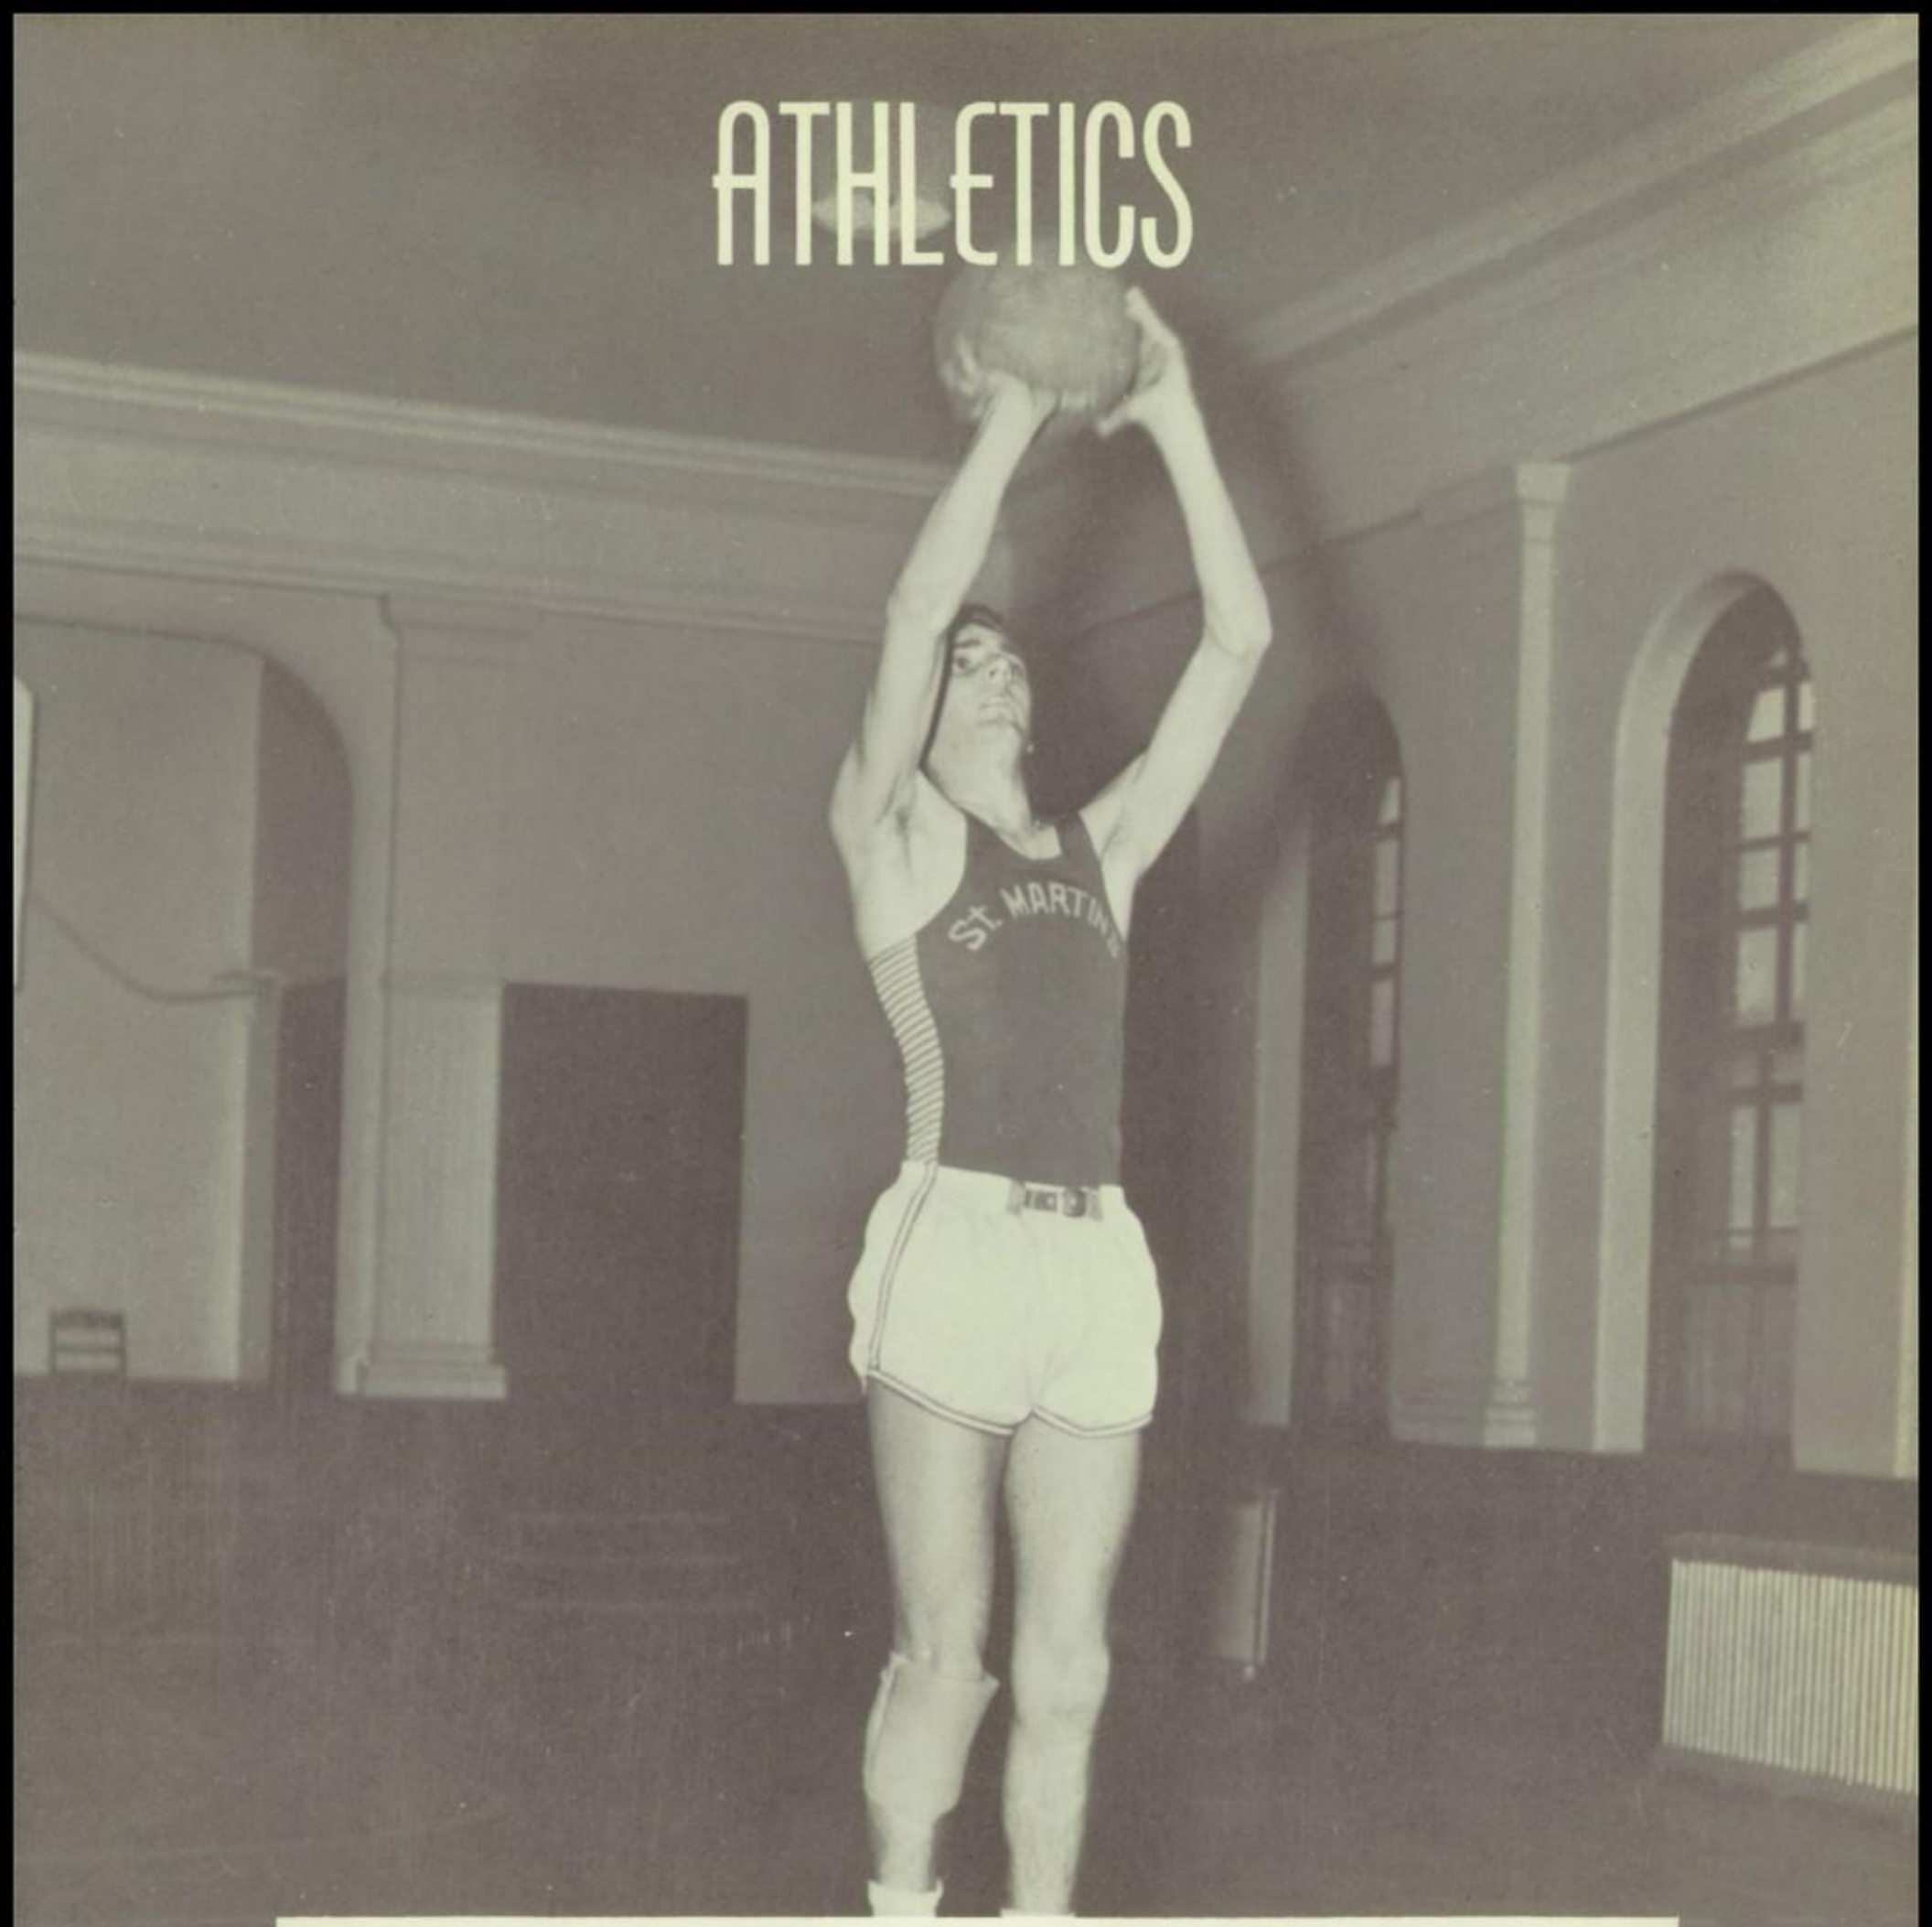
The Feast of Mary's Queenship which is to be celebrated every year in the whole world on the 31st of May . . ."

Joyfully the world received our Holy Father's proclamation. From the four corners of the earth the Magnificat resounded. "My soul magnifies the Lord, because He that is mighty has done great things to me."

We, at Saint Martin tried to celebrate this beautiful feast in the most fitting manner possible. With white rose buds, Our Children of Mary President crowned Our Lady's statue. The entire student body thrilled to the words of Pope Pius' beautiful prayer addressed to Our Lady, Queen. Father Shank's meditation for the occasion struck a new note of confidence in our hearts as we realized that Mary knows each of us by name and watches over us with a mother's care.

Constance Fitzsimmons crowns Our Lady; her attendants are Kathryn Reordon and Donna Hardy. James McGann gets ready to read the ACT OF CONSECRATION.

ATHLETICS



Some great soul from the world of sports has left us the saying: "It isn't important whether you win or lose but how you play the game."

There are great lessons to be learned on a basketball or volleyball court: to rise to the challenge of a contest and give the best that is in us; to play to win, but never at the expense of the rules and our respect for ourselves; to be big enough to admire the courage and skill of an opponent and wish him or her well in a game well fought.

The scores we made will fade from our memories, but these lessons we learned will go with us into the game of life. And when the final whistle has blown and the Great Referee has tallied the score, we will understand how true this lesson learned in this school called ours: "It isn't important whether you win or lose, but how you play the game."

Ably directed by Miss Judy Breslin, girls' basketball and volleyball attracted a number of agile young Martinites anxious to play, and equally eager to don a maize-colored uniform after the day's quiet navy and white. Each bright spot on the court helped to lighten the spirits of the team, for what they lacked in ability they made up for in daring.

We expect great accomplishments from the team next year!

The Bells of St. Martin

The bells of St. Martin, they chime far and wide,
They're pealing a summons to come to her side,
And join in the chorus that on this glad day
Her long years of earnest endeavor repay!

CHORUS

The bells of St. Martin, ah, loud they are ringing,
And jingling their message that never grows old;
They tell of a story that chimes out in glory
A tale of service, faith and love that's e'er retold;
Ah, Bells of St. Martin, how oft at they summons,
In days of our childhood we learned to obey;
And in loving mem'ry these past years
recalling,
We promise that our loyal love shall e'er repay.

Wher're in the future our footsteps
may roam
The bells of St. Martin will e'er call us home.
And e'er round the heartstrings, dear school, wilt thou be Entwined by the memories we cherish of thee.

"Gratitude is the first fruit God looks for as He comes through the garden gate. Will He find it growing in the garden of your heart?"...This quotation used by the Saint Martin Alumnae Association in yearbook advertising can be answered in their regard with a definite YES.

Gratitude is the reason for its being. Mindful of the gift they themselves have received, the members loyally return to their Alma Mater for formal and informal meetings. The Association actively participates in the I.F.C.A., and Saint Martin can boast of several Past-Governors and Regents, of whom she is justly proud.

Dear Fellow Graduates, faithful patrons of THIS SCHOOL CALLED OURS, we are happy to join the Association which your gratitude has inspired.
